AN ABSURD PROPOSAL.

The Statist, a London financial paper, evidently labors under a misapprehension. It seems to believe that the United States hasn't enough troubles of its own. The Statist calmly invites President Roosevelt to undertake the policing of Morocco in France and Germany. That surely is a fine business proposition for France, Germany and England. In return for the trouble and expense to which this nation would be put it would receive the cordial esteem of the powers interested, as long as it suited them to put up with our policing.

Of course President Roosevelt should accede to the proposition instantly. He should take his big stick in his hand and go right over to Morocco to tell the natives that if they were not good to France and Germany he would beat them up a bit. What a fine thing that would be! It might even furnish the excuse for another term for Roosevelt on the plea that he should be given plenty of time in which to get Morocco policed to his satisfaction.

In the meanwhile, though, a view of the situation shows that we have just a few troubles that belong to us exclusively. The odoriferous Panama canal, for example, the Philippines, Porto Rico, Santo Domingo and a few little things like that are entertaining us somewhat. Then we may have to hold Castro before long while France chastises him. That ought to leave us a lot of time in which to police Morocco.

Yes, seriously, a great many people would be perfectly willing for the United States to undertake the job of Mr. Roosevelt would lead the American forces in person. The job positively must positively not be sublet to prospective son-in-law Longworth.

Judge Theodosius Botkin, counsel to the Mauritius Islands, writes that he is homesick. It will be too bad if the judge doesn't snap pat. Mauritius Islanders need him worse than we do.

Professor Wiley called the pure food expert because he finds any impure food, "trembles when he approaches the breakfast table." There is poison in the cup and on the plate, poison on the loaf and in the peach, poison in the egg and poison in the pie. Yet the professor should not tremble at this. It is a sign that he will be a long time working himself out of a job.

D. O. Mills has arrived in San Francisco and is expected in Carson this week on business connected with the V. & T. extension.
